

Federal regulations require that students make Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) towards the completion of their degree in accordance with the school's SAP policy. The University at Buffalo's Satisfactory Academic Progress policy is available online at: <http://www.financialaid.buffalo.edu/process/sap.php>.

Per federal Satisfactory Academic Progress regulations, a student must complete his/her degree requirements within 150% of the published time frame for degree completion. For example, if a degree program requires 120 credit hours, the student would be required to complete his/her degree requirements within the maximum time frame (MTF) of 180 attempted credit hours:

120 credit hours for degree x 150% = 180 attempted credit hours to complete degree requirements
(*Programs that exceed 120 credit hours are adjusted according to the UB catalog.)

All transfer credits are notated on the University at Buffalo academic transcript. However, the academic transcript may not accurately reflect the number of credit hours accepted by the student's program towards the degree and general education requirements. If the total number of attempted credit hours (transfer and UB credits) meets or exceeds 180, a student is deemed ineligible for federal financial aid.

A student may appeal the loss of his/her financial aid eligibility due to excess transfer credit hours that cause the student to meet or exceed the maximum time frame (MTF) only if the following conditions are met:

- The total number of transfer credits is equal to or exceeds 30
- The student is accepted into a degree program, "intended" majors are not eligible
- The student is meeting the GPA and Pace requirements which are available to review at: <http://undergrad-catalog.buffalo.edu/policies/finances/federal.shtml>

Instructions:

Complete pages 2 and 3 of the appeal form and attach any supporting documentation. Please be advised that incomplete applications or applications lacking sufficient documentation and signatures will be denied. Submission of this form does not guarantee the reinstatement of your financial aid eligibility. You will be notified via email of the outcome within 2-3 weeks of appeal submittal.
