Honors TA Position Overview

Honors Teaching Assistants lead first-year student HON 102 sections in the fall semester. They will facilitate service learning projects for the freshmen students and act as a liaison between the students and the community partners. We are looking for outstanding students who have demonstrated some or all of the following attributes.

- Successful completion of HON 102—Honors Colloquium
- A participatory, positive attitude in previous community service environments.
- An ability to take the initiative to go above and beyond the stated responsibilities of a particular role.
- Professionalism and maturity.
- Facilitation and analytical thinking skills.
- Good standing in the Honors College

Some reasons to be an Honors Teaching Assistant:

- Four graded academic credits for HON 495, based on work as a facilitator and time spent training for this role to be applied toward your Honors Experience curriculum.
- Facilitation and leadership skill development.
- Programming experience that demonstrates application of leadership skills.
- Development of professional interpersonal behaviors.

Honors Teaching Assistant Responsibilities:

- Facilitating one of the following 14 weekly HON 102 sections:
 - Mondays 1:00-1:50 p.m. (three sections)
 - Mondays 2:00-2:50 p.m. (three sections)
 - Mondays 3:00-3:50 p.m. (three sections)
 - Wednesdays 1:00-1:50 p.m. (three sections)
 - Tuesdays 10:00 to 10:50 a.m. (three sections)
- Completing readings and lesson planning for the HON 102 section.
- Serving as the liaison between the Honors College faculty member and the service site.
- Participating in TA meetings with HON 102 faculty member and other facilitators once per week on Wednesdays from 3:00-5:00 p.m.
- Grading of reading response and reflection papers.
- Submission of weekly reflection papers and a final reflection paper.
- Holding office hours one hour per week in the Honors College offices.
- Attending scheduled orientations as follows:
 - One two-hour session at the end of the spring 2015 semester tentatively scheduled for Tuesday May 12th.
 - One full-day training on Thursday, August 27th from 9-5pm. Arrangements will be made for early on-campus move-in, if necessary.
